Top 100. Janet Davidson, president and CEO of Mississauga's Trillium Health Centre, is one of Canada's Top 100 Most Powerful Woman.

Janet Davidson, president and CEO of Mississauga's Trillium Health Centre, is one of Canada's Top 100 Most Powerful Woman.

Davidson will be honoured by the Women's Executive Network (WXN), an organization dedicated to the advancement and recognition of executive-minded women in Canadian workplace, at a gala taking place at the Fairmont Royal York hotel in Toronto tonight (Monday, Nov. 30).

Each year, an independent advisory board at WXN selects winners in eight categories: corporate executives, entrepreneurs, public sectors, trailblazers and trendsetters, champions, professionals, future leaders and arts and communications.

"I am proud that there is no glass ceiling in the health care sector, as evidenced by the many hospital CEOs, including myself, who started as nurses providing care to patients and now bring that clinical experience to the executive suite," said Davidson. "I wish the WXN much success in its work supporting women in all sectors and industries in realizing their potential for career advancement."

Davidson - who was named an Officer of the Order of Canada for her work with Red Cross in 2006 - joined THC as president and CEO in March 2007 and has more than 30 years experience in health care management. Prior to her stint in Mississauga, she was the CEO of Vancouver Acute with the Vancouver Coastal Health Authority, Toronto East General Hospital (TEGH).

"I want to congratulate Janet on this well-deserved honour," said Anne Sado, chair of Trillium Health Centre's board of directors. "She is an inspirational leader and an influential thinker whose strength derives from her intelligence, integrity, commitment and passion.

Other Mississauga women who feature in list include City Manager Janice Baker; Paula Knight, vice president, corporate image and business excellence, Microsoft; Linda M. Collier, president and CEO, Tri-ad International Freight Forwarding Ltd. and Connie Clerici, president and CEO, Closing the Gap healthcare group.
